Zheng He of Tewo, also known as Zen "The Nomad" was a 11th century witcher noted for having been in and founded or helped found several different schools throughout his career. Many of these, however, fall into legend.

Zheng would technically be the first more direct contact between the Far East and the North, but being a myth with little veracity, it is still maintained that it was the expeditions of Fabio Sachs that began to shed more light on the other side of The Continent.

Biography

What is known for certain is that Zheng came to the Northern Kingdoms through a diplomatic contact between Haakland and Kaedwen, as one of the royal pages of the Great Khan at the time at about seven years of age, to eventually (probably because he was enslaved) escape and get lost in the forests of the region, where he would be found by Castran, who would take him with him to the School of the Wolf (this last part is a legend, as no records have been found) where he would be trained to become a complete witcher.

At some point in his career, he would appear as a witcher from the School of the Griffin,but as with the Wolves, no records have been found to prove it. and according to the legends, he would go to the Far East, where he would help found the School of the Singyuren, to leave shortly after, joining the School of the Slyzard, and help in the foundation of the School of the Lungonite where, in the end, he would stay.

Trivia

- Part of the inspiration for Zheng He's article is the infamous Gary Stu article by Artur I of Cintra and its presence in multiple schools but done correctly.
- The portrait of Zheng He of Tewo, belongs to one of the avatars of the mobile video game The Witcher : Monster Slayer. Edited a bit with Prequel App to make it look better. The intention was to give the story of the game a bit of background in the world of The Witcher.
